Letter from Eugene City.

EUGENE CITY, May 24, 1865.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

The weather "turned off" warm and dry some time since, and has continued so long already as to create some fears of an injury to the farming interests by reason of drouth. The gardens and fields look up beseechingly for rain. And while every thing else is getting dry, our town has also come to be exceedingly dry and combustible, which, with one or two slight fire alarms, has awakened considerable anxiety among property holders. This town has been singularly free from loss by fire, due to the fact of continued caution "among all hands" as to fire appointments in and about the buildings. It is feared this caution is becoming relaxed, and it is of course true that it ought to be redoubled as the fixtures become old, displaced and "extra-hazardous," as the insurance companies have it. By the way, why have we not an Oregon Insurance Company? Why must Oregon pay tribute to her more pretentious sisters on this score, as she has been doing on so many others? An insurance company is supposed to be (and usually is, though not always, of course,) profitable to the stockholders, and there is no doubt quite a drain upon our local funds to make rich the California and other foreign insurance companies. There are but one or two companies represented here, and one reason why more policies are not issued is that the premium money finds its way so far and so fast out of the State. Have we no [illegible] capitalists among us that will initiate the enterprise of an Oregon Insurance Company? I would not have Oregon over-jealous of foreign capital, nor by any means give up, like the Statesman, a great enterprise, such as the great daily mail, because based on foreign capital. The child must creep before it can walk, but it need not always creep. Sometimes the child tries to walk too soon, it is true, and gets a broken nose, (how about our telegraph and railroad companies?) but for all that it is not well to utterly despair. Better to go upright through the world, even with a nose a little askew, than to be always crawling on the hands and knees.

Apropos of having now brought your readers to their knees, let me chronicle the arrival last week of a new clergyman at this place, Rev. John Wylie, with a view of a permanent [illegible] here, and a re-organization of the Presbyterian Church, O. S., which had become somewhat scattered of late years.

Bishop Scott (Episcopal) is now here making his annual visitation and will commence holding evening services to-morrow evening.

Two of your prominent townsmen are spending a few days here, Governor G. and Dr. C., on business, for the most part official, it is said, (yesterday, though, they went a-fishing) connected with the opening of the new military road, Owyhee-ward, and also in relation to the cavalry company stationed here, its transfer to the [illegible], etc., etc.

Of the prompt action by Capt. Rhinehart in the case of P. H. Mulkey, his arrest, his attempt to escape, and his removal to Vancouver, I [illegible] you have been duly advised by telegraph. This is in some respects an unfortunate case, the prisoner being the son of an old citizen of this county, highly respected and an exemplary man.

Gen. E. L. Applegate has received his commission as Surveyor General of the State of Oregon, has filed the requisite bonds and has entered upon the duties of his office.

The stock for the new proposed [illegible] factory at Springfield, three miles east, has been all taken. A wool-carding establishment will go into operation at this place in a few days, and in view of the feverish excitement now raging in Oregon on the wool question, I had better let the wool theme close this rambling letter.

COMUS.

BEECHER ON THE ASSASSINATION OF THE PRESIDENT.—The New York Evening Post, of April 24th, says:

The largest number of persons ever [illegible] at Plymouth Church met yesterday morning to hear Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, who has just returned from Charleston, and who was expected to allude, in his first sermon to the [illegible] of President Lincoln. Before nine o'clock several hundred persons had gathered about the entrance; and when the hour of opening came, the crowd was so dense that the services of the police were required to control it, so as to prevent accidents that might occur to the multitude in the rush to gain admittance to the church.

Soon after the doors were opened the building was filled. The aisles were crowded, the window sills covered, and every spot in which it was possible a human being should find a place, was occupied. Several ladies fainted, and the windows were thrown open. Many hundred persons remained outside, and vainly struggled to get within hearing distance of the pulpit. It is estimated that no less than five thousand individuals, including a large proportion of the pewholders, desired to hear the sermon and were disappointed.

Beecher's text included the first [illegible] of the last chapter of Deuteronomy, which relates to the journey of Moses to the Mountains of Nebo, to the top of Pisgah, whence he was shown the promised land. In the sermon Beecher spoke of the toils, sorrows and war through which Lincoln had come, until he was near to the promised land of peace, into which he might not pass.

The speaker alluded to the joyous feelings of the people just previous to the tragedy at Washington, and to the grief that now overwhelmed the land.

The nation should not mourn that the departure of the Chief Magistrate was so sudden, nor at the manner of his death, for he fell by the bullet, like a soldier in battle. It was the expiring blow of the rebellion; and, in this connection Beecher referred to the selfishness, brutality and barbarity of the rebels, and of the system under which they had been nurtured, and remarked that it was fit that their final blow should be such as to take away the last possibility of forbearance, the last pity, and fire the souls of the people with invincible determination that the breeding-ground of such mischiefs and monsters should be utterly and forever destroyed. But the blow, aimed at the Government and the nation, had signally failed; they were not weakened but strengthened. How naturally and easy were the ranks closed. In an hour another stepped forward to take the mantle of the President. Beecher avowed his belief that Johnson would prove true to the great trust reposed in him, for he was a man of the people, he had suffered from slavery, and he prized liberty and order on account of his own bitter experience. The speaker closed with an eloquent exhortation to the people to behold the martyr, the drops of whose blood, like so many articulate words, pleads for fidelity, for law, for liberty.

THE OBSEQUIES OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.—Yesterday was a sad and solemn day in this metropolis. Business was entirely suspended, and the Streets were filled with throngs of mourners for the illustrious dead, whose mortal remains were receiving funeral honors in the Nation's capital. Never since the death of Washington has such a scene been witnessed. The mourning was universal. Scarce a building, public or private, was without its "habiliments of woe," and there were few individuals who failed to wear some badge of mourning. On every hand were noticed unmistakable evidences of the deep and earnest affection of the people for their departed ruler. Their demonstrations betokened more, far more, than respect for the high office he so recently filled; they were full of devotion to the man whose honesty, patience, frankness and firmness in upholding a grand idea through the terrible ordeal of prolonged civil war had made him great. It was not a towering, overshadowing intellect in the late President which had so bound him to the people. Webster was unquestionably his superior in intellectual force, but, while the latter was the admiration and pride of his countrymen, he was loved only by those who knew him personally and well. But Abraham Lincoln was almost idolized by millions who never saw him, and who only knew him through the public acts of which he was the author as the Nation's executive. It was his virtues as illustrated in these public acts, which magnetized the people, and which, now that he has gone, have led to his canonization in the popular heart—not as a great President, but as the faithful and sincere advocate of grand ideas, dear to the Nation and believed to be essential to its permanent well-being.—[illegible] Bulletin.

Advantages Gained by the War

During recent times, individual caprice or personal resentment have rarely been the original and inciting causes of war. Of old, war was often undertaken with no other motive than to retaliate for some fancied insult, or to avenge some private, and perhaps imaginary wrong. The growth of civilization and the development of a common code which embodies the various rights and obligations that appertain to enlightened nations, now prevents war from being resorted to on a trivial pretext; and, therefore, the first care of belligerents at the present day, is to justify themselves and their conduct in the eyes of mankind. War is now a conflict of antagonistic ideas that have been pushed so far that there can be no other arbiter. It is a combat between different and opposite systems brought into competition with each other, and between which there can be no peace until one or the other is destroyed, or until they become so neutralized that they can mutually assimilate. War, in short, is the culmination of the opposition that must ensue by the contact of forces differently constituted. Great destroyer as it is, it is the most efficient of all agents in the work of progress and reform.

In the economy of nature, destruction invariably precedes an advancement to a higher condition. By the great convulsions which past ages have witnessed, progress was not arrested; on the contrary it was thereby accelerated. So now, when the present great commotion is at an end, we shall find our country springing forward with all the vigor of a new life. Terrible as this war has been, its results will be for the greatest good. The destruction it has caused is but the ruin that precedes restoration.

The sacrifices that have been made to maintain the national integrity, are but the price which is to be paid for the possession of whatever is of the highest value. The cost of preserving our national unity has been immense, but the object gained is a full compensation. Our nationality is triumphantly maintained. Hereafter none will have the temerity to assail it. Universal freedom is hereafter to prevail. Henceforward sectional ideas and sectional disputes are to be no more. Free speech is to be everywhere tolerated, a privilege which in the past, was denied in half our country. Mutual good will and perfect amity will succeed the jealousies and bickerings of former times. Our civilization will hereafter be homogeneous, and we shall be one nation in aim and sentiment. Our population will not be composed of two classes whose opinions and interests and habitudes differ irreconcilably as was formerly the case, but we shall be one people because the true interests of all will lie in the same direction. The cause that has been promotive of the only strife the country has ever known will be removed, and nothing can hereafter occur to produce dissension or to interrupt the reign of perfect and continuous peace.

The immediate consequences of this great war have been deplorable, but its ultimate results will far more than counterpoise these evils. The disadvantages and losses of a brief day are not to be set off against those far reaching and greater results whose operative force is to continue through all coming time.

THE TRUE PEACE MEN.—It is to be observed that the party which was so earnest in urging the war, so long as the resistance of the rebels made the war necessary, is now most disposed toward peace. Now that peace seems to be gained through the only means that could consist with national honor, the "Democracy" who had been crying for "peace" when they well knew that peace could not be had unless concession should be made to the rebels of what they demanded, have suddenly lost the power of utterance and invoke peace no longer. The peace that is now coming is not at all on the conditions which those precious patriots hoped for. Hence their sudden reticence. They have all along favored peace when they supposed it would be to the interest of the rebels for them to do so. There have been a great many examples of the mode they would have adopted to bring peace to the country. The "peace" proclivities of Fernando Wood were made manifest when he wrote his letter to a rebel Governor regretting that he could not send arms to his State to assist in destroying the Government. Harris, of Maryland, has been a violent advocate of "peace" ever since it became apparent that the rebels were getting punished for their misdeeds. Lately his propensity for "peace" took a new direction and he was found advising rebel prisoners to violate their parole, go South and take up arms again. For thus advocating "peace" he was arrested and thrown into prison where he still remains, confined "merely on account of his opinions." Many "Democrats" who a short time ago were "peace" shriekers are now strong war men; that is to say, they anxiously hope that the rebels will be able to continue the contest some time longer. These "Democrats," crafty and untrue men, never desired peace unless the rebels should profit by it. The true peace men are those who have fought this conflict through, and who would have peace only on terms consistent with the integrity of the Government and with future safety. All who called for peace by any other means than the demolition of the rebel power, were mere pretenders and false men.

A NEW PAPER.—By a Prospectus published in the Eugene Review, it appears that Jas. O'Meara, (a man well known in Oregon,) designs to commence the publication of a "Democratic" newspaper at Albany, the first number to be issued on the 24th of June next. O'Meara has tried his hand on one "Democratic" paper after another for the past several years, and judging from his changeful career, we should say that he had not been very successful. He is one of the most violent opponents of the country and its true policy whom we have amongst us. The last paper he edited, (the Eugene Review,) while under his management, did considerable injury to the Union cause, and lent very efficient aid to Jeff Davis and secession during a term of years. Everybody knows what O'Meara's political status is, and his paper can, of course, be commended to all who favor secession and rebellion.

MINES ON THE BLACKFOOT RIVER.—New mines were discovered last winter on the Blackfoot and some of its tributaries, which are now attracting much attention. Rich quartz, as well as placer diggings, have been found. The mines are near the route leading from Hell Gate toward the upper Columbia and Kootenai. On Lander's Fork of the Blackfoot the most extensive of these new diggings have been discovered. So far, the present season, parties traveling in that direction have been obliged to make the detour of the Bitter Root mountains in order to avoid the snow. The snow has probably disappeared by this time, at least so as to enable travelers to pass over.

[illegible] WASHINGTON.—The Washington [illegible] the following synopsis of Senator [illegible] speech at Washington on the [illegible] of the rejoicings over the capture of Richmond:

FELLOW CITIZENS: I have come here to-night to rejoice with you over the great victories [illegible] by the armies of the republic, and over the downfall of the stronghold and citadel of the most wicked [illegible] but now prostrate conspiracy against human [illegible] and republican government. [illegible]

[illegible] we have saved the life of this nation, who have added new [illegible] glory [illegible] history. [illegible] Grant, Sherman. [illegible] to the hurrah. [illegible]

We are obliged [illegible] together with our allotment of space, not permitting a full transcription of our notes. But the Senator's peroration we [illegible] words, we have this [illegible]

Having [illegible] thousands of miles away, I [illegible] happy that, as an American citizen, I am still at home [illegible] city of Washington [illegible] and hope that [illegible] nation will [illegible] part of American citizenship [illegible] every part of the American nation. [Cheers.]

Let the day speedily advance when every American, though he may be [illegible] New England, or on the great prairies of the West, or the savannahs of the South, will feel everywhere within its borders that the country is his, and that he belongs to the country, [illegible] prerogative [illegible] every foot of American soil [illegible] the Constitution attaches, and over which the flag waves, and say this is my country, my home, my green land forever. [Cheers.]

WHO BURNED COLUMBIA.—It will be remembered that the rebels were furious in their denunciations of Gen. Sherman because, as they alleged, he burned Columbia. Their Copperhead allies took the matter up and paraded it before their readers, indulging in all the pathos with which they were accustomed to plead for the enemies of the Union, and inveighing in the most bitter terms against the defenders of the country for committing so flagitious an act. It now appears that the heroic rebels themselves set the city on fire, and that our army exerted itself to the utmost to save it from destruction. Gen. Sherman, in his official report, says:

Before one single public building had been fired by order, the smouldering fires, set by Hampton's order, were rekindled by the wind, and communicated to the buildings around. About dark they began to spread, and got beyond the control of the brigade on duty within the city. The whole of Woods' division was brought in, but the fire, by midnight, had become unmanageable and raged until about four a. m., when, the wind subsiding, it was got under control. I was up nearly all night, and saw Generals Howard, Logan, Wood, and others, laboring to save houses and protect families thus suddenly deprived of shelter, and of bedding and wearing apparel. I disclaim on the part of my army any agency in this fire, but on the contrary claim that we saved what of Columbia remains unconsumed. And without hesitation I charged Gen. Wade Hampton with having burned his own city of Columbia, not with a malicious intent, or as the manifestation of a silly "Roman stoicism," but from folly and want of sense, in filling it with lint, cotton and tinder. Our officers and men on duty worked well to extinguish the flames, but others not on duty, including the officers who had long been imprisoned there, rescued by us, may have assisted in spreading the fire after it had once begun, and may have indulged in unconcealed joy to see the ruin of the Capital of South Carolina. During the 18th and 19th the arsenal, railroad depots, machine shops, foundries and other buildings were properly destroyed by detailed working parties, and the railroad track torn up and destroyed down to Kingsville and the Wateree bridge, and up in the direction of Winnsboro.

THE MCKENZIE ROAD.—From the State Journal we clip the following:

From Mr. Milligan we learn that a party of two or three men was to start up on the McKenzie road yesterday, or to-day, to commence work. Messrs. Milligan, [illegible] and others, who came down from the mountain a few days ago, report that the snow was then nearly all gone [illegible] as Finger-board prairie, which is about 60 miles [illegible] this place, six miles beyond the Big Hill, and nearly as high as the summit of the main mountain. They marked out a new road up [illegible] creek, which leads to the south of the old road, avoids the big hill entirely and reaches the summit of the mountain at the northern base of the "Three Sisters" on a very gradual ascent. It is the intention of those who have gone up [illegible] work, to open [illegible] as soon as possible, and then there will be no stop [illegible] on the road. The trade with Canyon City [illegible] that [illegible] has already been worth a considerable [illegible] county, and will be of much greater [illegible] [illegible] way is opened. [illegible] that the citizens of the county will [illegible] the importance [illegible] completed over the mountain [illegible] Mr. W. Y. Miller [illegible] to [illegible] road [illegible]

STAMP DUTIES ON PLAYING CARDS.—The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has issued a special circular, dated Washington, April 4th [illegible] in which he explains the amount of stamps necessary to be affixed to Playing Cards, both when sold in the original and unbroken packages [illegible] and when divided into packs and exposed [illegible] at retail or higher prices. The following [illegible]

[illegible] that where the manufacturer of Playing Cards shall make [illegible] such Cards as [illegible] consistent with [illegible] to require that any person shall [illegible] jobbers, who may sell such Cards [illegible] unbroken packages thus marked [illegible] the manufacturer. Provided, That the [illegible] the Cards are sold by the jobber [illegible] covered by the stamps affixed [illegible]

Whenever any such package [illegible] several packs exposed for sale, it will be the duty of the holder to buy additional stamps that may be required by the [illegible] which he offers them for sale. JOSEPH J. LEWIS, Com.

A RICHMOND GRAVEYARD.—The Richmond Whig of April 11th has the following paragraph:

One capital tradition, and a [illegible] without a shudder. Thousands of our noble dead have had their lives slowly sapped away by want, by unfeeling cruelty and by the most atrocious [illegible] brutality, and now [illegible] one common place [illegible] [illegible] of Richmond [illegible] Mournfully will the bereaved friends of the dead [illegible] dust of those who [illegible] unforgotten.

Defective Duck Pond.—The attention of our city [illegible] is called to the dangerous process now going on [illegible] Hall street, at its junction with [illegible] pond when any considerable quantity of [illegible] Front street is being filled [illegible] the rotten wooden [illegible] left unrepaired, leaving [illegible] for the [illegible] [illegible] breeding wiggles [illegible] &c. A fine location [illegible]

Books Received.—We acknowledge the receipt from [illegible] Barrett, Esq., bookseller of this city, [illegible] Lea Littlepool. We have not yet had time [illegible] more than a mere cursory examination. From [illegible] who has read it we learn that it is an interesting [illegible] from Bancroft & Co., of San Francisco, [illegible] entitled Ameline, by George B. Parker. It is [illegible] of some poetic merit, and will be read with interest [illegible] the first poem of length published on this [illegible]

Human Hogs.—King Richard the Third was [illegible] whom history says was finally killed at Bos[worth]. Notwithstanding he was such a detestable villain [illegible] in this city a type of the human species who [illegible] in the Prince and Police Courts of Portland for [illegible] rejoices in the title of "Richard III." He [illegible] however, but being a "slave of whiskey" [illegible] "slave of nature," as Shakspeare says his [illegible] was, he is often found dancing before [illegible] would disgrace even him whose name he has [illegible] He was up to his pranks yesterday.

Plowing Match.—The farmers near Albany [illegible] next at the farm of Mr. [illegible] and [illegible] for prizes in plowing. The first prize [illegible] being; $5 for second best, [illegible] the third [illegible] fourth [illegible] be awarded for the best and second best plows [illegible] for three or five horses, and some [illegible] this city will be exhibited [illegible] the expected the "June plowing [illegible] regularities in Oregon agriculture.

Arrival.—The steamer John H. Couch arrived [illegible] night from Astoria, bringing the bark [illegible] Master, with a full cargo of [illegible] days from San Francisco to the Columbia [illegible] Enterprise, Butler Master, [illegible] lumber to Capt. Dodge, from Mendocino, was [illegible] in tow [illegible] on the way up, but [illegible] current of the Columbia prevented her being [illegible] further until the return trip of the [illegible]

Idaho Warrants.—We are advised [illegible] that all the warrants lately [illegible] Council, in favor of [illegible] company, lately purchased by the [illegible] been drawn but they have not been called for.

[illegible]—Capt. A. S. Richardson, who arrived [illegible] last night, informs us that the new tug [illegible] which was built in California for the Co[illegible] may be expected here in about twenty days [illegible] of Capt. Conner.

Fire Alarm.—The department were called out [illegible] half past nine o'clock on Saturday night, [illegible] fire, which was occasioned by the burning of [illegible] Arrigoni's block.

[illegible] Property Sales.—The sale of city property [illegible] in another column by Mr. Richardson will be [illegible] the premises on Thursday next.

Steamer for Snake River.—The [illegible] says that the machinery for a steamboat [illegible] between Salmon Falls and Boise [illegible] is being put up at San [illegible] that a large number of quartz mills are [illegible] way to Idaho from California. Several [illegible] the way from the Dalles to Idaho City.

Worth Looking At.—We have been shown [illegible] samples of work executed by the Grover & [illegible] machine, which, not to exaggerate [illegible] marvellous. Most machines do their [illegible] wonderfully quick, but it was yet a surprise [illegible] see such elaborate embroidery [illegible] of silken flowers, on different fabrics, [illegible] by anything not animate. The [illegible] varied in texture, from the finest lace, [illegible] material nearly a quarter of an inch in thickness, and yet all were equally under the control [illegible] and steel. In the matter of [illegible] useful work, the meed of praise must [illegible] to Messrs. Grover & Baker.—Hour

The South Carolina Gentleman

Andrew Johnson [illegible] Richmond [illegible] upon the reception in Washington [illegible] the news of the fall of [illegible] the Vice President [illegible] was serenaded by the [illegible] loyal people, and made a speech to them, [illegible] force and power, in which he laid down the treatment he conceived to be proper for the [illegible] and masses. In view of Mr. [illegible] untimely death, and Mr. [illegible] President of the United States, the speech he delivered [illegible] Washington [illegible] in it will undoubtedly be the policy of the new President. He said:

You must indulge me in making one or two remarks in connection [illegible]. At the time the traitors in the Senate of the United States plotted against the Government, and entered into a conspiracy more foul, more execrable, and more odious than that of Catiline against the Romans, I happened to be a member of that body, and, as to loyalty, stood solitary and alone among the Senators from the Southern States. I was then and there called upon to know what I would do with such traitors, and I want to repeat my reply here. I said if we had an Andrew Jackson he would hang them as high as Haman. But as he is no more, and sleeps in his grave in his own beloved State, where traitors and treason have even insulted his tomb and the very earth that covers his remains, humble as I am, when you ask me what I would do, my reply is—I would arrest them; I would try them; I would convict them, and I would hang them. As humble as I am and have been, I have pursued but one undeviating course. All that I have, life, limb and property have been put at the disposal of the country in this great struggle. I have been in camp, I have been in the field, I have been everywhere where this great rebellion was; I have pursued it until I [illegible] can now see its termination. Since the world began, there never has been a rebellion of such gigantic proportions, so infamous in character, so diabolical in motive, so entirely disregardful of the laws of civilized war. It has introduced the most savage modes of warfare ever practiced upon the earth. I will repeat here a remark [illegible] which I have been in no small degree [illegible]. What is it, allow me to ask, that has sustained the nation in this great struggle? The cry has been, you know, that our Government was not strong enough for a time of rebellion, that in such a time she would have to contend against internal weakness as well as internal foes. We have now given the world evidence that such is not the fact, and when the rebellion shall have been crushed out, and the nation shall once again have settled down in peace, our Government will rest upon a more enduring basis than ever before. But, my friends, in what has the great strength of the Government consisted? Has it been in [illegible]? Has it been in some autocrat, or in some one man who held absolute Government? No. I thank God I have it in my power to proclaim the great truth that this Government has derived its strength from the American people. [illegible] the effect they have ever [illegible] has resulted in the [illegible] there is not another Government [illegible] earth that could have withstood [illegible] can now congratulate [illegible] the strongest, the freest and [illegible] the world [illegible] through this trial [illegible] intelligent [illegible] you the great fact that Petersburg [illegible] of the strongholds of [illegible] brave and gallant [illegible] invincible soldiers. And [illegible] they have captured the citadel [illegible] stronghold of the traitors. Richmond is now occupied by the forces of [illegible]. Death to the [illegible] time. One word more and I have done [illegible] this. I am in favor of leniency [illegible] evil doers should be punished [illegible] the highest crime known to the law [illegible] and for him that is guilty of [illegible] willing to lift his impious hand against the authority of the Nation, I would say death is too easy a punishment. My opinion is that treason must be made odious and traitors [illegible] impoverished, their social power [illegible] they must be made to feel the penalty of their crimes. Hence, I say this: The halter to intelligent, influential traitors. But to the [illegible] to the deluded man who has been [illegible] the rebel ranks, I would extend [illegible] I would say return to your allegiance [illegible] to the Government and [illegible] the leaders I would hang. I hold, too, that wealthy traitors should be made to remunerate the men who have suffered as a consequence of their crime, Union men who have lost their property, who have been driven from their homes [illegible] and wanderers among strangers [illegible] talk about things here to-night [illegible] well informed persons [illegible] You can, to a very great extent, [illegible] public opinion [illegible] Let us come to the work [illegible] these traitors [illegible] let us put them [illegible] to public judgment, and [illegible]

The Monstrous Crime.—There are some crimes which are so dense with wickedness, so thick with horror, that they seem a compound of all other crimes, and so shock the mind by their surprising birth, that they utterly bewilder all [illegible] comprehension. Born of the devil, and [illegible] they are passed in the perpetration of some hard [illegible] on earth, and it is no wonder, therefore, that none but the infernal imagination [illegible] conceive such deeds, can receive them [illegible] without paralysis of [illegible].

Such was the crime, the crime of Slavery, which is the representative crime of all the other crimes of hell [illegible] human aspect, stalked into the presence of the President on Friday last, and by his murder, sought to destroy the [illegible] public. Against him [illegible] beneficent, and gentle nature [illegible] pardoned everybody, and [illegible] him was being signalized [illegible] of forgiveness [illegible] everything but Slavery [illegible] no purely human hate [illegible] his murder was simply the act of Slavery [illegible] its last blow of hate and revenge [illegible] in the interest of this [illegible] theory and logic [illegible] was the reason why [illegible] of the minister [illegible] with the President [illegible] and the plot probably embraced the remaining members of the Government [illegible] of Slavery which [illegible] might make a new rally [illegible]—Tribune.

Character [illegible] Mr. Lincoln [illegible] the late James L. Petigru [illegible] with whatever they [illegible] dollars [illegible] Special instructions were [illegible] full protection [illegible] Mr. Petigru, it will be remembered [illegible] Carolina, and stood firm and [illegible] almost alone, in his devotion to the Union, throughout the madness of rebellion [illegible] Southern Union man [illegible] of money [illegible] York [illegible] his family.

[illegible] Mr. Sam, the [illegible] Speaking [illegible] labor [illegible] "The dignity of labor be hanged!" [illegible] his interlocutors [illegible] "It's much more dignified [illegible] a year out of a royalty [illegible] the sweat of your brow [illegible]"

And now I think that on both sides of the Atlantic a great deal of cant has been talked about the dignity of labor. We know that it [illegible] of many of us, and we are told [illegible] is meant, not as a blessing, but as a punishment; but to assert that about the grandest and noblest thing in the world [illegible]

[illegible] Hostility.—The New York World, attributing the sentiments of that class of [illegible] parties whose hostility to Mr. Seward [illegible] urges that the Secretary [illegible] Cabinet in case the attempt to get him out by assassination should be thwarted by his recovery. [illegible] reasons for suggesting [illegible] that Mr. Seward has long been the [illegible] of the South, that [illegible] Southern masses have been taught to regard him [illegible] that he [illegible] the controversy which brought on the war," [illegible] the South would feel much the same kind of repugnance to come back with Mr. Seward in that position that we of the North would to receiving the States back with Toombs for [illegible] Georgia, Mason [illegible] of Virginia, Slidell of Louisiana, Jefferson [illegible] of Mississippi," and so on. [illegible] the assassin who attempted to reach the same conclusion with his dagger [illegible] any considerable number of loyal men with any [illegible]. The conspirators evidently [illegible] to accomplish [illegible]. As the representatives of [illegible] Northern prejudice," they sought [illegible] not only Mr. Seward as the foremost [illegible] but Messrs. Lincoln, Johnson and Stanton and Lieut. Gen. Grant. They succeeded only in getting rid of the President, and loyal men will hardly see the wisdom of completing their work by breaking up the Cabinet. Besides, the country [illegible] the rebels who plunged the country into [illegible] did their utmost to destroy the nation [illegible] very little [illegible]. If the rebels feel [illegible] repugnance in returning to allegiance because Mr. Seward is in the Cabinet, the more [illegible] Jeff. Davis [illegible] Surely to-day [illegible] Mr. Seward's [illegible]

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus, CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD, heals the irritated parts, gives strength to the digestive organs, brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction, even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness, which is the case with most remedies, or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it, if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.

Messrs. Tilton & McFarland
Safe Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen: From representations made by Mr. Lillie, I was induced to purchase of him one of his

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

On the 15th of February last a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings, and our own with the rest. We trusted our books, papers and all in the safe. After the fire the so-called "safe" was taken from the ruins, and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We send you the safe, with what is left of the papers, and you will see that not one of them is legible or strong enough to sustain its own weight. Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we found McKenzie & Hardy just opening their safe, Tilton & McFARLAND'S make, and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Condition.

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of [illegible] material in Messrs. McK. & H.'s cellar [illegible] hard, park, etc., their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the other building and had but little in the cellar. There was another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire testing, however no better than ours.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servants,
(Signed) GEO. L. CHESBORO & CO.

TILTON & M'FARLAND'S
SAFE,

The Only Protection

Against Fire and Burglars.

For the last Fifteen Years

This Safe has been well known in California and the Eastern States. They have resisted all the fires on this Coast, and we can point with satisfaction to the record that out of one of our Safes by means of Burglars. Their fire and burglar proof qualities are so well known that they need no further recommendation.

A good assortment of Tilton & McFarland's Fire and Burglar Proof Safes to be had at 318 Battery Street, San Francisco.

DOCTOR GIBBON has obtained from them their mode of treatment which cannot be surpassed.

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of [illegible] or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, so that they are cured [illegible] before it be too late. [illegible] them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without [illegible] any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the quacks [illegible] infest all cities, publishing that they will [illegible] curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians [illegible] Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.
